Postgraduate tuition fees
Postgraduate courses attract fees for both domestic and international students. A different fee is charged to domestic and international students. Fees quoted are subject to change and are indicative only.
Details of course fees can be viewed at:
monash.edu/fees

Domestic students
There are two payment options, a delayed payment through a government loan or an upfront payment. The fee paid is in full unless the student has been offered a Commonwealth Supported Place (CSP). Each year, the Faculty of Arts is offered a limited amount of CSP for postgraduate study. CSP offers are based on academic merit and students must apply by the application deadline.
Students in a CSP pay a lower course fee called the Student Contribution Amount (SCA). A CSP may be available to:
- Australian citizens and permanent humanitarian visa holders
- Australian permanent residents
- New Zealand citizens

Government loans
There are two types of government loans and both are available to Australian citizens and permanent humanitarian visa holders.
HECS-HELP is a loan to cover the SCA and is available to CSP holders.
FEE-HELP is a loan for 100% of the tuition fees. Students without a CSP place must pay full course fees upfront unless they have a FEE-HELP loan.

Why Study a Master of Applied Linguistics?
This stream is ideal for a range of professionals, including interpreters, editors, policy makers and health care professionals; anyone working with language issues in a multilingual and multicultural context. It is also recommended for teachers of VCE English language, language teachers (including English as a second language) and generalist teachers looking to improve their knowledge of grammar/language structures to teach in the Australian national curriculum.

Master of Applied Linguistics

POSTGRADUATE

Language is one of the most powerful communication tools people have and the Masters of Applied Linguistics from Monash University can help you become a specialist in the field.

While studying you will gain a critical understanding of theoretical and practical issues relating to applied linguistics, including second/language acquisition, language teaching, language contact and inter-cultural communication. Throughout the course you will have opportunities to develop your own interests within applied linguistics and to apply your developing knowledge to professional contexts.

Our program offers two areas of specialisation:

Applied Linguistics
This specialisation is designed to give students a strong understanding of languages and how they are applied within everyday contexts. The Applied Linguistics specialisation can be studied either on-campus in Melbourne or online making it accessible for students all over the world.

World Englishes for international communication
This specialisation addresses both theoretical and practical aspects of teaching World Englishes for international communication. It examines the implications of the global spread of English and development of World Englishes for the field of English language teaching.
Specifically, the specialisation focuses on the pedagogy of intercultural communication and explores in great depth the global diversity of the English language through the study of world Englishes.

Scholarship opportunities
A variety of scholarships and bursaries are available for prospective and continuing coursework postgraduate students. The number of scholarship and bursary offers made in any one year varies. Scholarships are available from Monash University, the Australian Government and other organisations. Prospective students should check all the scholarships on offer to see what they could be eligible for.
