Internships in the Faculty of Arts

Studying overseas as part of your Arts degree

Monash Arts recognises the importance of an international experience for our students and actively encourages you to take up the many opportunities that are provided to study overseas as part of your Monash Arts degree.

In fact, compared to other Australian universities we have the largest number of undergraduate students travelling overseas to study.

Why study overseas?

Invariably anyone who has studied overseas will tell you that it was a life-changing experience and very rewarding. The benefits include the opportunity to:

- Explore new cultures and new ways of thinking
- Expand your worldview
- Study away from the distractions of work and home
- Learn about yourself and your capabilities, how you handle unfamiliar situations, how adaptable you are
- Enhance your employability
- Make new friends from around the world
- Study and travel between semesters
- Do an internship and gain valuable international work experience

Studying overseas as part of your Arts degree

Monash Arts recognises the importance of an international experience for our students and actively encourages you to take up the many opportunities that are provided to study overseas as part of your Monash Arts degree.

In fact, compared to other Australian universities we have the largest number of undergraduate students travelling overseas to study.

There are a wide range of programs that you can choose from. Some are a semester long and other short term programs run between two to four weeks.

Studying overseas is not limited to undergraduate studies though. All of our postgraduate programs provide valuable opportunities to do fieldwork, projects and internships overseas as part of the degree.
Monash Arts offers an exceptional range of language and discipline specific short-term international study programs throughout Africa, Asia, Europe and the UK. These programs are offered between semesters and take the form of study tours, field trips and language programs.

Our Prato Centre in Italy offers a diverse choice of programs available to students outside the university if places are available.

Here are some examples of the kinds of short term programs we offer.

In-country Language Programs
We have established enduring connections with partner institutions around the world and offer intensive language programs in the following countries: China, Italy, Indonesia, Ukraine, France, Japan, Korea and Spain.

Music
Jazz and Strings in New York: In a unique collaboration with New York University, students study and perform with jazz and classical masters.

Arts in Prato

Programs offered by the Arts Faculty at the Monash University Prato Centre

Intensive Study in Italy
When it comes to studying overseas, the Monash Prato experience is unique.

Conveniently located just outside of Florence and immersed in the picturesque landscape of Tuscany, the Monash Prato Centre is situated in the elegant eighteenth century Palazzo Vai on Via Pugliesi in the centre of Prato.

Against this historic backdrop, Monash Arts offers a number of units, carefully designed to take advantage of all that Prato has to offer. Leading academics from around the world contribute their expertise to the Prato programs while students have the opportunity to tour historic sites and landmarks as they study them.

The average length of our units is between two and four weeks. The majority of units are offered in Summer and Winter semesters allowing you to study in between semesters and to travel in Europe without lengthening the time it takes to complete your degree. The Faculty of Arts offers both undergraduate and postgraduate units which are available to students from all courses and all campuses, subject to meeting eligibility requirements.

Arts Units at Prato
You are usually able to take up to two units offered in the same study period in Prato. Not all units are offered every year and additional units are also being introduced. Some units are studied solely at the Prato Centre, some include tours to other parts of Tuscany and Italy, and others also involve travel to other countries. For example, Beyond Gallipoli visits Turkey, Italy, Belgium and France.

Units may vary from year to year but here are some examples of what you can study:

- Archaeological fieldwork in Tuscany: Introduction to the Etruscan civilisation
- Beyond Gallipoli: Australians in the Great War
- Contemporary issues in European criminal justice
- Dante’s Medieval world: Politics, religion and the city
- Final journey: Remembering the Holocaust
- Intensive introductory Italian 1 and 2
- Music - Overseas study program
- Text and community in Medieval and Renaissance Italy
- Sacred cities: Jerusalem, Rome and Constantinople

From our students
Alex Dunn,
"Undertaking an international study program was one of the best decisions I could have made in the course of my University education. I got to visit and interact with a site that figures so highly in the national consciousness, as Gallipoli does. Coupled with the interaction with a distinctive culture it allowed me to grow both academically and personally. I would recommend international study to any current and future students."

From our students
Julie Siedses,
"I have participated in two Arts in Prato units and could not recommend them enough. Prato is such a wonderful medieval town, and so close to Florence; it is a fantastic taste of Tuscany and Italy. It is a truly privileged experience to actually see the places that are mentioned in the units, and imagine how people lived centuries ago. The lecturers have all been experts in the field and having art historians there was greatly enriching. All the staff at the Prato Centre could not be any more helpful and friendly. I can't wait to find an excuse to go back!"

From our students
Sarah Rathjen,
"Taking a subject through the Prato Centre is something I will remember forever. Studying overseas taught me that there are so many more ways to learn than just sitting in a lecture theatre. Being so fully immersed really inspires you to learn all that you can and more. I would do it again in a heartbeat."
